Update on McKinley Water Contamination Incident

For Immediate Release

Stephen Tracy
Interim Superintendent
November 4, 2016
10:30 am.

Results of the independent testing of the water at the McKinley School have been posted on the Fairfield Public Schools website. The results indicate that, as of Wednesday evening, November 2, levels of sodium and nitrite were below allowable limits as established by state public health authorities. It was on that basis that the decision to reopen the school on November 3 was made. The testing was conducted by the York Lab of Stratford, in collaboration with Big East Environmental LLC of Norwalk.

In addition, the two sinks that were found to have Ph levels that were within federal EPA limits but above state guidelines were flushed again prior to the reopening of the school on November 3. As a result of that additional work and test samples taken by Aquarion Water Company representatives, all measured Ph levels at the school were within the range prescribed by the Connecticut Department of Public Health.

McKinley Principal Leslie Pearson, Fairfield Health Director Sands Cleary, Director of Operations Tom Cullen, Maintenance Supervisor Mike Piatt and I met with concerned parents at the school last night to discuss the incident, including steps that will be taken to prevent such accidents in the future. A follow up report will be provided to parents and staff in the near future.
