COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Chinese 41 course is a two-semester, two-credit course, meets daily and is conducted primarily in Chinese. Students develop the ability to express themselves with relative ease and greater proficiency on a variety of topics in both oral and written language. Readings (literary works, articles, and biographies) are utilized to generate oral and written expression as well as to expand vocabulary, grammatical knowledge and cultural understanding. The course is intended for students who want to continue to develop a strong foundation in the language so that they may communicate effectively in the target language.
