Imaginations in Motion

Have you ever wondered how cartoons are made?! Well, now you can make your own. Create your own characters and set their adventures into motion by using a simple app. Characters and backgrounds can be made from anything you like. Clay, construction paper, Legos or anything else your imagination can conjure up are all possibilities. You will learn how to tell stories, animate your characters, create voice-overs, and add titles and transitions to create your very own animated film. When we are done creating, we will watch and celebrate your stories in a camp film festival! Students will receive a copy of their story to share and enjoy with family and friends.

Reader's Theater

Reader's Theater offers an entertaining, engaging, and performance based means of acting, improving fluency and enhancing comprehension. Students will practice reading aloud from a script as a whole class, in pairs, as individual characters, and finally as a group performance. The focus is on reading the text with expressive voices and gestures. No memorization is needed as scripts are held by the readers. Character crowns are designed by the reader and used as costumes in each weekly performance. If you love acting and are searching for a way to make reading fun and joyful (and a bit dramatic), then this is the class for you.
